John "Harp" Harper is a longtime sports columnist and television commentator whose career has focused primarily on baseball. "Harp" is a New Jersey native who played baseball and basketball at Parsippany Hills High School, and baseball at the University of Bridgeport before winning a national fast-pitch softball championship with the famed Raybestos Cardinals in 1983 and representing the United States at the 1984 World Softball Championships.

He began his journalism career at the Morristown Daily Record before moving to the New York Post and Daily News, where he covered the Mets and Yankees, and later became a familiar television presence on SNY.

A FAIRFAX COMPANY

Investing in Education. Partnering for Impact.

For more than 200 years, we've believed that strong communities are built through access, opportunity, and education. Through our partnership with CCM, including support for the College Promise Program, we are proud to help empower students as they pursue higher education and prepare for meaningful careers.

We're grateful to the County College of Morris Foundation for its leadership and commitment to student success and community impact.
