THE PROMETHEAN CAPTURES MAJOR DESIGN AWARD

The 2017-2018 edition of The Promethean was presented with a Graphic Design USA American Graphic Design Award, marking the 13th time since 2005 the publication has been selected for recognition in that contest.

The American Graphic Design Award is the largest showcase for original work created by professional design firms and individuals, including publications, invitations, self-promotional items, signage and websites. There is no separate category for student-produced work, meaning The Promethean was judged against professionally produced material.

The 2017-2018 edition also recently was presented with the Graphic Design USA American Inhouse Design Award. That was the seventh time the publication received an Inhouse Design Award since 2011.
