Anything Goes Featuring the Talent of CCM Students, Employees and Others

Sing along with Cole Porter’s classic musical “Anything Goes” as the Department of Music, Performing Arts & Music Technologies presents a revival filled with student talent.

The comedic show, which first premiered on Broadway in 1934, has been reimagined several times, toured the U.S. and the United Kingdom, and was made into two films. It remains a favorite among school and community performing groups.

Set aboard an ocean liner bound for London from New York, “Anything Goes” tells the story of provocative nightclub singer Reno Sweeney who is secretly in love with Billy Crocker, a stowaway who has his sights set on a wealthy heiress. Hope Harcourt is, regrettably, engaged to Lord Evelyn Oakleigh, and Crocker enlists the help of the ship’s performers and fellow passengers to win her over.

The show’s Director Marielaine Mammon, chair of the Department of Music, Performing Arts & Music Technologies, is eager to show off the cast and crew of 38 people from around northern New Jersey. Jaclyn Lenox, of Bridgewater, stars as Reno Sweeney. John De Luca, of Netcong, who portrays Billy Crocker, shines alongside the glamorous Lydia Girardy, of Long Valley, who plays Hope Harcourt. Other supporting characters include Dover’s Jacob Wood as Lord Evelyn Oakleigh, Jon Wade, of Flanders, as Moonface Martin, and Roxbury’s Eric Tayler as Elisha Whitney.

Mammon says they chose the 2018 revival version of the script, because the original version did not have the contemporary sensitivities of newer interpretations. “It’s important for the students to understand the context and the lyricism of Cole Porter and why we are still singing these songs,” she says.

The story is full of life and humor, something Mammon says audiences are craving, and the cast of “Anything Goes” is delivering. “The tap numbers are exquisite – the entire company participates in a few numbers,” she says. “The world needs a little shot of energy and that’s what tapping does.”

Performances of “Anything Goes” will be held November 17 – 20, 7:30 p.m. in the Dragonetti Auditorium. General Admission is $15. Tickets for CCM students, alumni, children under 12, and seniors 62 and over are $10. For more info or to purchase online visit <https://bookstore.ccm.edu/current-shows/>.

Masks are required for everyone who comes to campus and social distancing guidelines are in place.

CCM’s Parks Program recently presented a recorded session at NISOD’s 2021 Annual Fall Virtual Conference titled “Project Yellowstone: Seeing the World Through an Interdisciplinary Student-Centered Lens.”

Professor Samantha Gigliotti, Dr. Michelle Iden and Professor John Soltes described the creation and implementation of the Parks Program, recognizing the successes and challenges faced throughout the process, with the intention of providing information that helps others design similar interdisciplinary programs at their own schools.

On Saturday, November 6, Dr. Maryanne Garbowsky, Department of English & Philosophy, will present a paper “Within the Magic Prison” at the South Atlantic Modern Language Association conference as a member of the Emily Dickinson panel. Her paper deals with the impact of isolation on poet Emily Dickinson as reflected in a collage by Joseph Cornell. The following Monday, November 8, she will discuss Ernest Hemingway’s novel “The Old Man and the Sea” at the Morris Museum for Great Horizons, an ongoing community learning organization.

Last Saturday, several CCM Culinary students were inducted as members of the Bailliage Joseph Donon chapter of the Chaîne des Rotisseurs, which is the world's oldest and most prominent food and wine society. The induction ceremony was held at Fairleigh Dickinson University which recently formed the Bailliage Joseph Donon in conjunction with several community colleges, including CCM. CCM was the first community college to induct students into the new chapter. With nearly 21,000 members, the Chaîne des Rôtisseurs brings together enthusiasts from more than 80 countries who share the same values of quality, fine dining and interest in the culinary arts and the pleasures of the table.

Back on Campus Again!

Bear Aware

Due to bears migrating through the area, it is normal to see some bear activity on campus this time of year. Every so often, they will join Public Safety on its midnight shift patrols. If you should encounter a bear on campus, follow these safety tips:

- Never approach or feed a bear.
- Never run from a bear. Slowly walk away and avoid making direct eye contact.
- If cornered or you feel the need to take action, scare the bear away by making loud noises and making yourself look as big as possible by waving your arms.

A full list of bear safety tips from the New Jersey Division of Fish & Wildlife can be found at www.state.nj.us/dep/fgw/bearfacts_safetytips.htm/.

Any bear sightings on campus should be reported to the Department of Public Safety at ext. 5550. For immediate safety concerns be sure to dial 9-1-1 for an emergency.

Stay safe!
