Toyota gives CCM a truck

At noon on January 30, the County College of Morris Landscape and Horticultural Technology (LHT) Department received keys to a new 2008 Tundra truck from Toyota Motor Sales in honor of its award from the National Association of Agricultural Educators (NAAE).

Last summer, the NAAE selected County College of Morris as one of six top post-secondary agricultural education programs in the country. Toyota teamed up with the NAAE as part of its long-standing commitment to agricultural education in the U.S.

College officials along with the FFA State Vice President, Alyssa Mottram attended the presentation as well as Nancy Trivette, State Program Leader and State FFA Advisor in the Office of Agricultural Education in our Department of Agriculture.

"Professor Jan-Marie Traynor and her staff are a model of agriculture educators around the country, displaying the same core values of hard work and dependability that have defined Toyota vehicles for years," said Keith Dahl, national manager at Toyota. "We are proud to know it is one of our Tundra."

College students ride free on NJ TRANSIT from February 4 - 10

NJ TRANSIT will offer free rides to County College of Morris students from February 4 through February 10, to give them the opportunity to experience how simple and convenient it is to use public transportation.

Students can register for their Free Ride coupon by visiting www.njtransit.com and filling out a short registration form. After registration, students will immediately be able to print out the Free Ride coupon, valid for unlimited use throughout the free trial week. This information is available on the CCM website under news and events.

During the free trial week, CCM students can ride any NJ TRANSIT bus, rail or light rail line for free by presenting their valid student ID and a Free Ride coupon available at www.njtransit.com.

"The free trial week gives students the opportunity to experience the benefits of public transportation for themselves, offering them an easy, hassle-free way to travel to school or work," said NJ TRANSIT Customer Service Manager Rebecca Peralta. "During the fall semester, more than 33,000 students signed up to take advantage of free rides on our buses, trains and light rail vehicles."

"During this week-long promotion, students who don't own cars will see that they are not confined to on-campus activities, with access to many New Jersey destinations and New York City or Philadelphia just a bus or train ride away," said Jonathan Jones, a Rutgers University-Newark student and NJ TRANSIT intern. "On the other hand, students who do own cars may find that NJ TRANSIT offers a convenient alternative to the limited parking availability that some schools face."
