Perspectives on the U.S. Constitution: "Is the U.S. Constitution Still Working?"

In the Fall of 2004, Senator Robert Byrd of West Virginia accomplished a long-standing goal, passing a law designating September 17 as an official U.S. holiday called Constitution Day. Constitution Day is intended to celebrate not only the birth of our government, but the ideas that make us Americans. Source: www.archives.gov.

CCM to offer FREE lecture series in celebration of 40th Anniversary

As part of CCM's 40th anniversary celebration, the college will offer 4 FREE lectures throughout the year. The series starts October 8 with a lecture on "The 1960's: Days of Rage, Days of Hope," from 10 to 11 a.m., in the Student Community Center Davidson Room. Raymond Frey will discuss Presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, the Cuban Missile Crisis, the Beatles, civil rights, Martin Luther King, Vietnam, Woodstock and much more. Leaving the tranquil '50s behind, the '60s challenged government policies and social norms. It was a time of rage, but also a time of hope and one of the most interesting periods in American history. Admission is free. No registration is required.

The FREE series continues on November 10 with a lecture on "40 Years of Fashion: A Retrospective from the 60's to the Present." On March 17, CCM will offer "Back Roads of Morris County" and on April 7 the FREE series will end with a lecture on "The Legacy of Rose the Riveter." For more information on the FREE lecture series, go to www.ccm.edu by clicking on the 40th anniversary symbol or call 973-328-5187.
