Back Roads of Morris County

There are at least ten major roads that run all the way through Morris County, and they all have stories to tell, some from before the Revolution. They cover almost all of our county's 39 municipalities, and pass some of our most interesting buildings and landmarks. But most of all, they've been the address of our county's most illustrious (and infamous) characters, ranging from Washington himself to Linda Tripp.

Join local photographer Jim DelGiudice for the ultimate Morris County road trip, as he takes a light-hearted look at the highways and byways we take for granted every day. And wait until he lists all the historic figures that have lived in the county we call home.
