More than $200,000 in Scholarships and Awards Available at CCM

New Online System Streamlines Application Process

More than $200,000 in scholarships and awards are available this academic year for students attending CCM, the college's Foundation has announced.

The 95 scholarships and awards cover almost all academic disciplines, including several that are available to nursing students, as well as students studying landscape management, music, international studies, hospitality management, public administration, business, and students with disabilities.

A new online application on the college's website will streamline the process and make it easier for students to apply.

"We are pleased to offer so many scholarships and awards to new and returning students," said Joseph Vitale, president of the CCM Foundation. "Thanks to the generosity of our donors, CCM students who qualify for these scholarships have additional ways to underwrite the cost of their education. We hope all students will visit our website and investigate the criteria for applying for these awards."

Most scholarships are awarded based on grade point average. "We offer scholarships primarily to Morris County residents to attract stellar students to our school," said Harvey Willis, director of the CCM Financial Aid Office.

Scholarship and Awards (cont'd)

"These students earn their scholarships through personal excellence. It is particularly important to reward exceptional students during these difficult financial times," added Louise Massoni, scholarship coordinator and financial aid advisor.

To simplify the process, CCM has created an online scholarship application accessible on the financial aid page of the CCM website at <http://www.ccm.edu/admissions/FinancialAid/>.

Students are encouraged to apply early. Willis and Massoni also emphasized that the CCM Financial Aid Office is available to assist students. Along with the online application, a list of available scholarships can be found on the Financial Aid page.

CCM Professor Stephen H. Longo Included in 39th Annual Creativity International Awards Book

The 39th Annual Creativity International Awards recently selected a set of menus designed by Stephen H. Longo, professor and coordinator of the Graphic Design program at CCM, as one of three winning entrees in the Menus and Winelists category.

Longo was presented with an honorable mention for a series of five menus he designed for Matsuya, an upscale Japanese restaurant in Saddle Brook, NJ. Along with the award, the menus have been included in the Creativity 39 Awards Annual Book, produced as a resource for creative professionals seeking inspiration and others interested in quality graphic design. The menus were designed as part of Longo's firm, Stephen Longo Design Associates of West Orange.

Longo also recently was presented with an Award of Distinction from American Graphic Design & Advertising for the series of menus, consisting of a bar, lunch, sushi, dinner and children's menu.

The school year is here, and parents/teachers may want to take a close look at this most helpful web application. Quizlet allows students and teachers to create flashcard sets with little fuss, and they can also share their flashcards with friends via email, Facebook, or MySpace. The site has a great "How do I...?" section that provides many answers to how to best use the program. Quizlet is compatible with all operating systems. <http://quizlet.com/>
