

Daniel Pisacreta Bio

I was born and raised in Morris County, New Jersey. Much of my early childhood was very typical like most suburban children: I went to school, I played at home, etcetera. Also, much like most children, I had a wild imagination. I would immerse myself in a whole new world every single day, right in my backyard! As I grew older, this imaginary world I had made for myself, would turn into a story I'd play out in my mind whenever I was bored. Eventually, this 'imagination story,' as I used to call it, would evolve into my life's goal.

My interest in art began during my final year in middle school, and became my passion during my time in Roxbury High School. There, I created my first original characters and began developing stories for them. These characters and their story were derived from my imagination story as a kid. Developing this further, I soon came to the conclusion that this is what I wanted to do with my life. I want to bring my imagination to life, by way of digital animated works.

This passion continues into my college education at the County College of Morris, where I only further my developments with the franchise: improving character designs, fixing plot holes, brainstorming new and better ideas, etcetera. After CCM, I plan on continuing my education at Fairleigh Dickinson University while continuing to work on my passion project. After FDU, I plan on getting any job(s), internship(s), and any other opportunities that will help me with making my dream project come to life.
