

Brittany Goldberg

Bio

Brittany was born in Denville, NJ and grew up in the town of Sparta. She first started taking art seriously in middle school, and decided by her freshman year of highschool it was the career she wanted to pursue. Throughout highschool she took various art classes each year, such as AP Sculpture her senior year. She participated in the school's art gala each year and joined Sparta Highschool's National Art Honor Society. After graduating from Sparta high, Brittany went onto college at the County College of Morris for her Associates Degree.

As a child Brittany went to camp, and loved arts and crafts the most. Once she was old enough to work at the camp, she knew she wanted to be a part of the staff to make art special for children. For the past few years Brittany has been a camp counselor and this past summer was the Art Director. This gave her a chance to work closely with the children and introduce them to the love of art.

Brittany plans to pursue her Bachelor's Degree in art and pursue a career in the art industry.
