Art always seems to be an outlet for people to express themselves. Because of that, I have been able to find a way to express my feelings. I was never sure about what I wanted to do with my life. Then in 2016, I went through an experience that changed my life dramatically. Helping people was always a priority for me, ever since I was a little girl. Being able to give back and help people through the expression of art will be extremely rewarding. My dream is to work with geriatric patients in a hospital or senior center. With art therapy, I want to help people show their emotions and hopefully help them heal. Sometimes people have to go through a traumatic experience to understand what an individual wants to do with their life. My life changing experience definitely had a large influence on my future. I had finally found a way to express my feelings so now it is time to help other people in the same aspect.
